WILSON TO ADDRESS CONGRESS TOMORROW

PLANS CALL FOR MORE LEGISLATION ON FOOD

WILSON TO RECOMMEND LAWS THAT WILL CATCH LARGE AND SMALL PRICE GROUGERS ALIKE

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS IN AFFAIR

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.—President Wilson will go before Congress at four p. m. tomorrow with plans to ask for an extension of the food control powers of the government, including control of more commodities than the existing laws have. He has completed his message and is now at work revising it for the printer. The President, it is hinted, desires laws that will teach the smallest retailer as well as the producer and wholesaler. This will prevent many of the exorbitant practices being carried on by the small dealer. The plans of the President, it is understood, will require the enactment of three, or four additional measures by Congress.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—An army of 1000 agents of the Department of Justice are abroad today for evidence of wholesale food and price gouging which has been alleged from every part of the nation. This force began work under orders of two hundred federal attorneys and will be augmented by United States Marshals and their deputies. The agents of the Federal Trade Commission are also in the field to co-operate with the Department of Justice. Attorney General Palmer is at his desk today directing the work.

WASHINGTON, August 7.—The charges against the packers' combine will be laid before the Federal Grand Jury at Chicago, said U. S. District Attorney Coyne, of Chicago, who is at the capital today. Coyne came here to confer with President Wilson and called at the White House, but was unable to see the President because of failure to arrange for a conference by reason of the absence of Secretary Tumulty. The Grand Jury will be asked to consider the finding of the Federal Trade Board against the packers, but this will not be the only line along

JITNEY SQUABBLE HEARD BY STATE OFFICIALS HERE

Representatives of the Public Service Commission heard testimony in the complaint of the Pulling Auto Bus Company against James Spingola and Hugh Milligan at the Court House yesterday afternoon.

The auto bus company has a certificate from the Public Service Commission for regular jitney service in Clearfield and alleges that the persons complained of are interfering with their rights and privileges by "wildcatting".

Under the new U. S. revenue law all persons running jitneys or hauling passengers for hire are required to pay a revenue license and following the paying of this license, it is alleged the independent jitneys considered they had the right to carry passengers any place or at any time.

As regular jitney passenger service is controlled by the Public Service Commission laws and the operation of at least one of the jitneys was alleged to be in direct opposition to these laws and a violation of the privileges granted the Pulling's under their certificate or franchise, the complaint was filed.

A number of witnesses were heard yesterday and the testimony will be written out and passed upon by the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg and a decision made in the near future.

GRAMPIAN SOLDIER BOY LANDS

Mrs. Margaret Hallman of Grampian received a telegram on Wednesday of the safe arrival in New York of her son Sergeant Robert G. Hallman, after more than nineteen months service overseas.

Hobart enlisted in the U. S. regulars in June 1916 and was stationed at Columbus Barracks until after the United States took a hand in the fight. In November, 1917, he was sent to Camp Robinson, near Sparta, Wisconsin, and a little later sent overseas with the famous 17th Field Artillery, 2nd Division. This Division was the one that paved the way for the advance of the doughboys during the American drive in June, 1918. It was one of the strongest and most efficient of all regular army batteries in foreign service. The 17th Field Artillery was cited many times by various commanders.

Sergeant Hallman was wounded quite severely on June 24, 1918, while in the act of repairing telephone lines. He stuck to his post while the shells were falling all around him until exhausted from pain. For this act he received the French Decoration, the Croix de Guerre.

Sergeant Hallman states that he expects to get a furlough soon to come home and visit his mother for the first time in more than three years.

NEW HUNGARIAN SOCIALIST GOVERNMENT FALLS

Archduke Joseph Assumes Control

BULLETIN: LONDON, Aug. 7.—The news agency dispatch filed at London today tells of the fall of the new Hungarian Socialist government by resignation. It says further that the Allied Mission has set up a governing body under the leadership of Archduke Joseph.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Julius Perle, founder of the new Hungarian Government has been overthrown according to advices reaching the Peace Conference here today. It is said that a new government has been formed with the Archduke Joseph at its head and that his headquarters have been established. The overthrow of the new government, dispatches say, was accomplished by the Hungarian police who are a strong factor in Hungarian politics. Telling of the overthrow, the dispatches say that the members of the

A new kind of mattress designed particularly for use in hospitals, made in sections, each about two feet square. The advantage is that any one section can quickly be removed without disturbing a patient unduly. Another advantage is that any section can be removed and give the patient relief from the pain of being cramped in his bed. The mattress is made of a soft material and is very comfortable.

Peace has its patriots as well as war. Peace-time patriotism at present means carrying on by the country a quiet, bloodless struggle against the kind of extravagance. It means saving and spending afterwards.

The typical American will be quick to see that "there is a lot" for his own personal good in the idea. He knows that every material possession in this every kind of training, and almost every kind of advancement takes money. As a nation, we have industry and economy had acquired a reputation for account, said to me the other day: "Money might not be everything in life, but when my wife was desperately ill and it took about six hundred dollars to pay for doctors and nurses to save her life, it was a comfortable thing to have, I can tell you." There are many men I know who would have had to go into debt under that financial strain.

While saving for a rainy day is indeed necessary to cushion living for a sunny opportunity is a much more joyous proposition. And the government has devised an exceedingly easy and fascinating way of doing this through Thrift stamps and War Savings stamps. For the young student who yearns for a college education, for the business man or woman who looks forward to a real vacation some day, for the whole who are planning to beautify the home, for the millions of individuals who hope to do this or that when some extra money is suddenly there are many ways of converting small change, which formerly slipped out of sight, into 25-cent Thrift stamps, which in turn are convertible into War Savings stamps paying 4 per cent interest compounded quarterly.

The consistent investment of small sums that are never noticed from the pocketbook roll up into an amazing total. For instance, $1.00 invested at the interest paid on War Savings stamps for 36 years gives the investor a capital of $2,927.25. And once the Thrift habit is established opportunities are easily found for the investment of small additional to the scheduled savings. This is the philosophy of the "Save first—spend afterward" slogan.

All the foregoing seems to relate only to personal gain, but it ties up definitely with the nation's welfare. The pooling of the hundreds of millions of dollars which we can profitably invest in government securities (of which the tax-exempt War Savings stamp is the best-paying) means just that many hundred million dollars to the speeding up of industry and production.

Furthermore the growth of thrift as a national habit will tend to the better husbanding of our natural resources, the reduction of which has been one of the most shameful chapters of our history.

These greatly increased potentialities in the production of our resources and conservation of resources cannot but lead to a more sounder prosperity. By each one doing his bit for sensible saving will result such an accumulation and development of resources as will place the United States far and away the most progressive and leading nation of the world.

Peacetime patriotism calls for every American to put his share to the great wheel of national success. In place of the "Save first—spend afterward" slogan of peace is, "Save first—spend afterward."

LOYAL LEGION IS ORGANIZING POSTS IN EVERY STATE

In the first three months since the St. Louis caucus of the American Legion, the national organization of American veterans of the Great War, more than 2400 local posts of former soldiers, sailors and marines have been formed in the United States. Of this number 1200 posts have been chartered by the National Headquarters of the Legion at 19 West 44th street, New York City. Application for national charters for 1259 others are pending and charters will be issued as rapidly as possible. These local organizations include ex-service men in every state in the union. Based on the record of charters issued at National headquarters and on reports from state branches, it is estimated that the membership in the American Legion up to July 31st was more than 300,000.

In addition to the formation of local posts, two of the fundamental steps in the organization program of the National Executive committee representing the Paris and St. Louis caucuses have been accomplished. The establishment of a nation-wide organization with a governing body at national headquarters and the creation of an active state branch in every state. By September 1st the Legion plans to have at least one local post of ex-service men in each congressional district or county in the United States.

During September a membership drive will be conducted in each state under the direction of the state organization. The aim of the organization committee at National headquarters will be to enroll 1,000,000 former soldiers, sailors and marines prior to the national convention of the Legion at Minneapolis on November 10th, 11th and 12th, when the permanent organization of the Legion will be effected. November 11th will be American Legion day throughout the country. Following the membership campaign in September, state conventions will be held in October to elect delegates to the national convention.

In the organization to date, New York state leads the country with 162 posts chartered and 163 additional posts organizing with charters pending. Pennsylvania has 152 posts actually chartered; Massachusetts has 140 chartered posts and 64 others organizing; and Iowa has 116 posts chartered by National headquarters. In intensive organization of service-men, however, the states of Vermont, South Dakota, Iowa and New Hampshire call the country. These states have more posts per 1,000 men who entered the service than any other state.

It Is the Easiest Thing in the World to Invest in War Savings Stamps
 BY THE WIFE OF A FORMER U. S. ATTORNEY GENERAL

If anyone is not accumulating a stock of War Savings stamps surely that person is not acquainted with all the advantages that W. S. S. hold for their owner. Without exception every person knows something he wishes to have which takes a sum of money he cannot well afford to spend. In the case of adults it is often a trip they would like to take, the purchase of a piano, a collection of books, or some special educational course, or it may be funds for some philanthropic project. In the case of youth it is more often the opportunity to go to college or train for a favorite career. But whether the dream is of pleasure or advancement or altruism, the United States government has found a way to make it come true by giving everyone a chance to invest every spare bit of change at interest. No one thinks of running to a savings institution with an extra quarter, nor would he stop to invest a dollar gained unexpectedly by purchasing some article a little cheaper than anticipated, but it is the easiest thing in the world to buy a Thrift stamp with the quarter, or four of them with the extra dollar, right at the store where the purchase was made, for Thrift stamps are sold at all banks and post offices and almost every large store, factory and office in the country. And when sixteen Thrift stamps have been acquired they can be exchanged for a War Savings stamp which bears over 4 per cent interest. Thus a little pile of money is accumulated without a person feeling that he is denying himself anything. For a little over $900 (to take the maximum purchase allowed) collected and loaned to the government in this way, five years from now the government will return a thousand dollars. Besides this high rate of interest it must not be forgotten that government securities offer an absolutely safe investment. As I said above, one has only to know War Savings stamps to buy them. They are the easiest, the most convenient and most profitable investment in the country for savings and they afford an opportunity for patriotic action.

Germany Lives for Revenge and Will Seek It at First Opportunity
 BY HENRY COLEMAN, CLEARFIELD, Pa. Editor of the Progress

I do not think I overstate the case when I say that the German people are not conquered. They have in their hearts a great hate for England and France, and while they will sign the peace treaty and make the best of it, yet they will do it, in my judgment, with the reservation that the time will come when they can have their revenge. The German people along the Rhine paid the American soldiers great respect and implicit obedience. But they have a holy hate for the British and French. They also have a bitter feeling for the American nation, because they now believe that they would have won the war if the United States had not come in. The constant surprise along the Rhine and in Germany for the American today is the great number of children in all the towns. I never saw so many children, and the military idea is born in them. Scores of these youngsters everywhere were playing at war with sticks for rifles. These children will not grow up with a horror of war in their hearts, because Germany has not been hurt at home with horrors, as have France and Belgium. I am certain they will feel that somehow, sometime they will yet realize their slogan—"Der Tag." Germany lives for revenge and will seek it at the first opportunity.

Will Visit Every Country In World

(By United Press)
VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 7.—Charles W. Wood, a New York newspaper man, is scheduled to sail today on the "Empress of Russia" on one of the most remarkable assignments since Jason set out to find the Golden Fleece.

"Visit every country on earth and find out what the people want." This commission was given Wood by the Centenary Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church. It may take him 20 years. It probably will.

Wood was on the Sunway editorial staff of the New York World when given his sailing order. Twelve years ago, at 27, he was a locomotive fireman and began his newspaper career as a cub reporter on the Syracuse Journal, in 1909. His wartime interviews in the New York World were later put together in a book "The Great Change".

"I don't know where I'm going but I'm on my way," is literally true of Wood. He has never been in any foreign country before and speaks no language except English. He has no guide, no schedule and no definite orders. He is accompanied only by his wife, who is equally unacquainted with foreign lands. Their immediate destination, however, is Cheng-Tu in Western China, which is about as thoroughly foreign a city as any white folks ever visit. There, rather than in the cities familiar to American tourists, Mr. and Mrs. Wood will begin to look at the problems of earth, as far as it is Mantattany possible, through thoroughly Oriental eyes.

"I don't know anything about China," said Wood, before starting on his unprecedented journey, "and I have been doing my best not to learn anything about it until I get there. I have heard that it had 400,000,000 people, and I have taken it for granted that they all run laundries. I suppose I was selected for the job because they couldn't think of anyone else who would have so little to unlearn."

"Do you feel confident," he was asked, "that you can actually get the Chinese way of looking at things across to American readers?"

"I don't know," he said. "I don't know whether there is any Chinese way of looking at things. Maybe the Chinese people are human. Maybe they love and hate and aspire like other human beings. Maybe they have human differences and human traditions and human prejudices. It is possible that they live on the same planet that Americans have been customarily inhabiting and that their problems may turn out to be our problems to."

"I am most anxious to learn" he added, "what the people of all these countries want, and I don't know of any better way of finding out than to ask them. Most Americans that I have met seem to go on the assumption that we have certain advantages here which the people of the Orient do not possess. If that is true, we have a wonderful opportunity to be of service to them. I am not a missionary. I am not a churchman. But I happen to agree with Jesus that it is more blessed to give than to receive; and I may be able to discover some new ways in which America can be blessed."

"I expect to talk with political and government leaders, with leading spokesmen of industry, business and education, with labor leaders if I can find them, and with the teachers of other religious creeds. I am about as rank an outsider as could have been selected for such a job, but the Methodists seem perfectly willing to let me find out everything I can."

"Where do you go when you leave China?" he was asked.

"I don't know," he said. "I haven't any itinerary, and the world is in such a state of flux just now that it would seem foolish to try to construct one. Eventually we expect to visit every country on earth; but I am not a war correspondent, and with war still raging in so many places there will be many countries which it will not be easy to visit for some years to come."

"I am trying to arrive at a world outlook, but I don't think I shall begin by asking everybody what he thinks of the world. Perhaps the world is in some such situation as I am. Perhaps it is headed for somewhere and hasn't got its full itinerary mapped out. If I stick around a while, however, I may be able to detect some signs of movement; and wherever I do find movement I intend to ask questions."

LETTER TO EDITOR

Editor Progress
Can the Rev. John F. Strayer who writes articles for your paper as to reverence for God's house, etc., make some suggestions to keep some of the ministers from jumping, cracking their fists, pounding the furniture and yelling or shrieking in the pulpit in a way to suggest a lunatic asylum rather than a place of holy worship. When will the country preachers learn that neither God nor the congregation is deaf. People with nerves might well flee to the huckleberry woods or any other quiet place for either work or blessed solitude or relief from the screaming in some of our pulpits to say nothing of good fresh air.

Your Children's Eyes

They're mighty important things—those eyes of your kiddies. It won't be long until those same eyes will be under the strain of the school year. And I ask you, in all fairness to the kiddies, is it right to start them on their school year under the handicap of imperfect vision?

WILSON TO ADDRESS CONGRESS TOMORROW
PLANS CALL FOR MORE LEGISLATION ON FOOD
WILSON TO RECOMMEND LAWS THAT WILL CATCH LARGE AND SMALL PRICE GROUGERS ALIKE

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS IN AFFAIR

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.—President Wilson will go before Congress at four p. m. tomorrow with plans to ask for an extension of the food control powers of the government, including control of more commodities than the existing laws have. He has completed his message and is now at work revising it for the printer. The President, it is hinted, desires laws that will reach the smallest retailer as well as the producer and wholesaler. This will prevent many of the exorbitant practices being carried on by the small dealer. The plans of the President, it is understood, will require the enactment of three, or four additional measures by Congress.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—An army of 1000 agents of the Department of Justice are abroad today for evidence of wholesale food and price gouging which has been alleged from every part of the nation. This force began work under orders of two hundred federal attorneys and will be augmented by United States Marshals and their deputies. The agents of the Federal Trade Commission are also in the field to co-operate with the Department of Justice. Attorney General Palmer is at his desk today directing the work.

WASHINGTON, August 7.—The charges against the packers' combine will be laid before the Federal Grand Jury at Chicago, said U. S. District Attorney Coyne, of Chicago, who is at the capital today. Coyne came here to confer with President Wilson and called at the White House, but was unable to see the President because of failure to arrange for a conference by reason of the absence of Secretary Tumulty. The Grand Jury will be asked to consider the finding of the Federal Trade Board against the packers, but this will not be the only line along

HEARD BY STATE
OFFICIALS HERE

Representatives of the Public Service Commission heard testimony in the complaint of the Pulling Auto Bus Company against James Spingola and Hugh Milligan at the Court House yesterday afternoon.

The auto bus company has a certificate from the Public Service Commission for regular jitney service in Clearfield and alleges that the persons complained of are interfering with their rights and privileges by "wildcatting".

Under the new U. S. revenue law all persons running jitneys or hauling passengers for hire are required to pay a revenue license and following the paying of this license, it is alleged the independent jitneys considered they had the right to carry passengers any place or at any time.

As regular jitney passenger service is controlled by the Public Service Commission laws and the operation of at least one of the jitneys was alleged to be in direct opposition to these laws and a violation of the privileges granted the Pulling's under their certificate or franchise, the complaint was filed.

A number of witnesses were heard yesterday and the testimony will be written out and passed upon by the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg and a decision made in the near future.

GRAMPIAN SOLDIER BOY LANDS

Mrs. Margaret Hallman of Grampian received a telegram on Wednesday of the safe arrival in New York of her son Sergeant Robert G. Hallman, after more than nineteen months service overseas.

Hobart enlisted in the U. S. regulars in June 1916 and was stationed at Columbus Barracks until after the United States took a hand in the fight. In November, 1917, he was sent to Camp Robinson, near Sparta, Wisconsin, and a little later sent overseas with the famous 17th Field Artillery, 2nd Division. This Division was the one that paved the way for the advance of the doughboys during the American drive in June, 1918. It was one of the strongest and most efficient of all regular army batteries in foreign service. The 17th Field Artillery was cited many times by various commanders.

Sergeant Hallman was wounded quite severely on June 24, 1918, while in the act of repairing telephone lines. He stuck to his post while the shells were falling all around him until exhausted from pain. For this act he received the French Decoration, the Croix de Guerre.

Sergeant Hallman states that he expects to get a furlough soon to come home and visit his mother for the first time in more than three years.

STATE OPENS BID
ON CLEARFIELD COUNTY ROADS

Bids for the construction of four different pieces of state road in Clearfield county were opened by State Highway Commissioner Sadler at Harrisburg on Tuesday last.

The location of the roads, the names of the lowest bidders and the amount of the bids are as follows: Chester Hill borough, George I. Thompson and Co., of Clearfield 4,333 feet, $42,886.65.

Lawrence and Pike township, (Curtwensville-Clearfield road), Dowler & Anderson, of Clearfield, 17,374 feet, $195,484.80.

Dowler & Anderson, of Clearfield, 17,374 feet, $195,484.80.

Brady township, 8,118 feet, George Minns, Jr., of DuBois, $68,179.

Sandy township, 13,027 feet, Dale Engineering company of Utica, N. Y., $138,000.

Under the rules and usual procedure of the State Highway department contracts for none of this work will be let for at least ten days after bids have been opened. This being necessary in order to give the department time and opportunity to investigate the bids and bidders, etc.

Each and everyone of these pieces of road are badly needed and should have been advertised long ago in order that work might have been started in time for completion before the winter sets in.

It has been the policy of the Highway department to let no contracts where but one bid was received for any piece of road and in the absence of definite information on the subject we are unable to say whether there were more than one bid on any of these propositions. However, now is the time for our Good Roads Association to get busy and join with the County Commissioners in insisting upon these contracts being let. Each and every piece of road named is badly needed and work on same should be started without delay. But if the people interested, and that means everybody, sits down and waits for something to happen, it won't happen. Let us all get busy and insist upon these contracts being let without delay.

BULLETIN: LONDON, Aug. 7.—The news agency dispatch filed at London today tells of the fall of the new Hungarian Socialist government by resignation. It says further that the Allied Mission has set up a governing body under the leadership of Archduke Joseph.

The overthrow of the new government, dispatches say, was accomplished by the Hungarian police who are a strong factor in Hungarian politics. Telling of the overthrow, the dispatches say that the members of the

A Quiet, Bloodless Struggle
Waste and All Extraneous

Peace has its patriots as well as war. Peace-time patriotism at present means carrying on by the country a quiet, bloodless struggle against waste and all kinds of extravagance. It means saving and spending afterwards.

The typical American will be quick to see that "there is a lot" for his own personal good in the idea. He knows that every material possession in this every kind of training, and almost every kind of advancement takes money. As a nation, we have industry and economy had acquired a reputation for account, said to me the other day: "Money might not be everything in life, but when my wife was desperately ill and it took about six hundred dollars to pay for doctors and nurses to save her life, it was a comfortable thing to have, I can tell you." There are many men I know who would have had to go into debt under that financial strain.

While saving for a rainy day is indeed necessary to cushion living for a sunny opportunity is a much more joyous proposition. And the government has devised an exceedingly easy and fascinating way of doing this through Thrift stamps and War Savings stamps. For the young student who yearns for a college education, for the business man or woman who looks forward to a real vacation some day, for the people who are planning to beautify the home, for the millions of individuals who hope to do this or that when some extra money is suddenly there are many ways of converting small change, which formerly slipped out of sight, into 25-cent Thrift stamps, which in turn are convertible into War Savings stamps paying 4 per cent interest compounded quarterly.

The consistent investment of small sums that are never noticed from the pocketbook roll up into an amazing total. For instance, $1 per week invested at the interest paid on War Savings stamps for 36 years gives the investor a capital of $2,927.25. And once the Thrift habit is established opportunities are easily found for the investment of small additional to the scheduled savings. This is the philosophy of the "Save first—spend afterward" slogan.

All the foregoing seems to relate only to personal gain, but it ties up definitely with the nation's welfare. The pooling of the hundreds of millions of dollars which we can profitably invest in government securities (of which the tax-exempt War Savings stamp is the best-paying) means just that many hundred million dollars to the speeding up of industry and production.

Furthermore the growth of thrift as a national habit will tend to the better husbanding of our natural resources, the pooling of which has been one of the most shameful chapters of our history.

These greatly increased potentialities in the production of our resources and conservation of resources cannot but lead to a more sounder prosperity. By each one doing his bit for sensible saving will result such an accumulation and development of resources as the United States far and away the most progressive and industrious of the world.

Peacetime patriotism calls for every American to put his share to the great wheel of national success. In place of the "Save first—spend afterward" slogan of peace is, "Save first—spend afterward."

It Is the Easiest Thing in the World to Invest in War Savings Stamps
BY THE WIFE OF A FORMER U. S. ATTORNEY GENERAL

If anyone is not accumulating a stock of War Savings stamps surely that person is not acquainted with all the advantages that W. S. S. hold for their owner. Without exception every person knows something he wishes to have which takes a sum of money he cannot well afford to spend. In the case of adults it is often a trip they would like to take, the purchase of a piano, a collection of books, or some special educational course, or it may be funds for some philanthropic project. In the case of youth it is more often the opportunity to go to college or train for a favorite career. But whether the dream is of pleasure or advancement or altruism, the United States government has found a way to make it come true by giving everyone a chance to invest every spare bit of change at interest. No one thinks of running to a savings institution with an extra quarter, nor would he stop to invest a dollar gained unexpectedly by purchasing some article a little cheaper than anticipated, but it is the easiest thing in the world to buy a Thrift stamp with the quarter, or four of them with the extra dollar, right at the store where the purchase was made, for Thrift stamps are sold at all banks and post offices and almost every large store, factory and office in the country. And when sixteen Thrift stamps have been acquired they can be exchanged for a War Savings stamp which bears over 4 per cent interest. Thus a little pile of money is accumulated without a person feeling that he is denying himself anything. For a little over $900 (to take the maximum purchase allowed) collected and loaned to the government in this way, five years from now the government will return a thousand dollars. Besides this high rate of interest it must not be forgotten that government securities offer an absolutely safe investment. As I said above, one has only to know War Savings stamps to buy them. They are the easiest, the most convenient and most profitable investment in the country for savings and they afford an opportunity for patriotic action.

Germany Lives for Revenge and Will Seek It at First Opportunity
By Editor COL. W. H. CONNELLEY, Clearfield, Pa.

I do not think I overstate the case when I say that the German people are not conquered. They have in their hearts a great hate for England and France, and while they will sign the peace treaty and make the best of it, yet they will do it, in my judgment, with the reservation that the time will come when they can have their revenge. The German people along the Rhine paid the American soldiers great respect and implicit obedience. But they have a holy hate for the British and French. They also have a bitter feeling for the American nation, because they now believe that they would have won the war if the United States had not come in. The constant surprise along the Rhine and in Germany for the American today is the great number of children in all the towns. I never saw so many children, and the military idea is born in them. Scores of these youngsters everywhere were playing at war with sticks for rifles. These children will not grow up with a horror of war in their hearts, because Germany has not been hurt at home with horrors, as have France and Belgium. I am certain they will feel that somehow, sometime they will yet realize their slogan—"Der Tag."

Germany lives for revenge and will seek it at the first opportunity.

NOTICE
On account of the high cost of living the barbers of Clearfield have found it necessary to raise the price of hair cutting from 35c to 50c and shaving from 15c to 20c. All other prices to remain the same. We find that it is impossible to keep barbers at the business, as they can earn more money in less hours at other work; consequently we are continually looking for barbers. We feel that we are perfectly justified in making this increase in prices.

The new prices will go into effect Monday morning, August 11th, 1919. Hours will remain the same. All shops closed on Sunday.

IN THE DAYS NEWS
Warren S. Stone, who in behalf of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers demands that the Government either take action to force down the cost of living or grant the engineers another increase in wages, has been grand chief of the engineers' organization for more than fifteen years. He is a native of Iowa and was educated at Washington Academy and at Western College. He was inclined to mechanical interests more than to scholastic pursuits, however, and became a railroad brakeman as soon as his student days were over. He has been in the employ of but one road, the Rock Island, where he began forty years ago. Long a student of the economic as well as the industrial side of labor questions, Mr. Stone was for six years a member of the industrial peace commission.

Will Visit Every Country In World

(By United Press)
VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 7.—Charles W. Wood, a New York newspaper man, is scheduled to sail today on the "Empress of Russia" on one of the most remarkable assignments since Jason set out to find the Golden Fleece.

"Visit every country on earth and find out what the people want." This commission was given Wood by the Centenary Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church. It may take him 20 years. It probably will.

Wood was on the Sunway editorial staff of the New York World when given his sailing order. Twelve years ago, at 27, he was a locomotive fireman and began his newspaper career as a cub reporter on the Syracuse Journal, in 1909. His wartime interviews in the New York World were later put together in a book "The Great Change".

"I don't know where I'm going but I'm on my way," is literally true of Wood. He has never been in any foreign country before and speaks no language except English. He has no guide, no schedule and no definite orders. He is accompanied only by his wife, who is equally unacquainted with foreign lands. Their immediate destination, however, is Cheng-Tu in Western China, which is about as thoroughly foreign a city as any white folks ever visit. There, rather than in the cities familiar to American tourists, Mr. and Mrs. Wood will begin to look at the problems of earth, as far as it is Mantattany possible, through thoroughly Oriental eyes.

"I don't know anything about China," said Wood, before starting on his unprecedented journey, "and I have been doing my best not to learn anything about it until I get there. I have heard that it had 400,000,000 people, and I have taken it for granted that they all run laundries. I suppose I was selected for the job because they couldn't think of anyone else who would have so little to unlearn."

"Do you feel confident," he was asked, "that you can actually get the Chinese way of looking at things across to American readers?"

"I don't know," he said. "I don't know whether there is any Chinese way of looking at things. Maybe the Chinese people are human. Maybe they love and hate and aspire like other human beings. Maybe they have human differences and human traditions and human prejudices. It is possible that they live on the same planet that Americans have been customarily inhabiting and that their problems may turn out to be our problems too."

"I am most anxious to learn" he added, "what the people of all these countries want, and I don't know of any better way of finding out than to ask them. Most Americans that I have met seem to go on the assumption that we have certain advantages here which the people of the Orient do not possess. If that is true, we have a wonderful opportunity to be of service to them. I am not a missionary. I am not a churchman. But I happen to agree with Jesus that it is more blessed to give than to receive; and I may be able to discover some new ways in which America can be blessed."

"I expect to talk with political and government leaders, with leading spokesmen of industry, business and education, with labor leaders if I can find them, and with the teachers of other religious creeds. I am about as rank an outsider as could have been selected for such a job, but the Methodists seem perfectly willing to let me find out everything I can."

"Where do you go when you leave China?" he was asked.

"I don't know," he said. "I haven't any itinerary, and the world is in such a state of flux just now that it would seem foolish to try to construct one. Eventually we expect to visit every country on earth; but I am not a war correspondent, and with war still raging in so many places there will be many countries which it will not be easy to visit for some years to come."

"I am trying to arrive at a world outlook, but I don't think I shall begin by asking everybody what he thinks of the world. Perhaps the world is in some such situation as I am. Perhaps it is headed for somewhere and hasn't got its full itinerary mapped out. If I stick around a while, however, I may be able to detect some signs of movement; and wherever I do find movement I intend to ask questions."

LETTER TO EDITOR

Editor Progress
Can the Rev. John F. Strayer who writes articles for your paper as to reverence for God's house, etc., make some suggestions to keep some of the ministers from jumping, cracking their fists, pounding the furniture and yelling or shrieking in the pulpit in a way to suggest a lunatic asylum rather than a place of holy worship. When will the country preachers learn that neither God nor the congregation is deaf. People with nerves might well flee to the huckleberry woods or any other quiet place for either work or blessed solitude or relief from the screaming in some of our pulpits to say nothing of good fresh air.
